Catalysis (/k??tæl?s?s/) is the increase in the rate of a chemical reaction due to the participation of an additional substance called a catalyst (/?kæt?l?st/). Encyclopedias Stanford University Libraries In acid-catalyzed Fischer esterification, the proton binds to oxygens and functions as a Lewis acid to activate the ester carbonyl (top row) as an electrophile, and . In chemistry, homogeneous catalysis is catalysis in a solution by a soluble catalyst.
